PAYMENT CARD INDUSTRY DATA SECURITY STANDARD

PCI DSS COMPLIANCE

PCI DSS compliance is a requirement for those who process, store or transmit sensitive card data. Yet with more than 300 controls in the standard, it can be hard for businesses to know where to start, and what to do, particularly when certifying for the first time.

The impact of getting it wrong can be severe. Businesses may misunderstand the requirements, leading them to focus on the wrong areas. They may do more work than necessary, which costs them time, budget and hassle. And still, they may not pass their certification. This can mean losing customers, partners and even the ability to take card payments, if their payment provider pulls card acceptance services.

Cortida is a qualified security assessor company (QSA) and can guide your business through the end-to-end process of passing the PCI certification and achieving continuous compliance. We help with everything from clarifying and scoping what is necessary for your business, conducting gap analysis and actively managing compliance, through to audit and certification
